SHARP UPTURN IN MARKET PRICES

Mexican Complications Coming on Heels of Sharp Decline is Expected to Stimulate the Speculative Activity.

BY BRODAN WALL.

NEW YORK, April 22.—An overdue rally gave a sharp upturn to Tuesday's prices. From the crowd's nest of every financial craft, the look-out is scanning the horizon through binocular for a change in conditions. For days a mist of doubt has settled over the sea of speculation, confusing mariners.

War is usually incentive to speculation and our Mexican complications coming on the heels of a sharp decline in prices should be a stimulus to speculative activity.

Prices opened fairly firm and a drive in steel common that carried the price to 27 did not encourage fresh liquidation. Support appeared and the stock was firm at the close, with a rally of a point.

Short covering on Union Pacific gave a nervous tone to that stock and there was an advance of 1-8. New Haven gained a point. There is an extensive short interest in this issue which will no doubt find it extremely difficult to cover without a serious loss, bringing about in the meantime an advance out of proportion to present earnings. The shares are largely oversold.

An application to issue $20,000,000 general and refunding mortgage bonds of the St. Paul had been anticipated.

Prescribed by doctors for the past 19 years.

ipated and the stock was strong.

There was a smart recovery in the best issues. Great Northern preferred, Lehigh Valley, New York Central and Pennsylvania all recovered a point or more and Southern Pacific gained more than a point on small transactions.

The customary noon time dullness was followed by rising prices instead of the usual decline. Shorts were the principal buyers, but a scattering demand developed from commission houses, indicating an outside interest. Cables from London reported good buying in Union Pacific, Steel, Southern Pacific, Amalgamated Copper and Erie, a change in our Mexican policy being construed as a bullish argument on stocks. London is notably bare of American issues and any improvement in sentiment would be immediately reflected in our market.

Copper stocks were strong, although the local demand for the metal is unusually light. Amalgamated gained a point or more and Tennessee Copper was strong. Reading was in good demand at advancing prices and Pennsylvania gave the first evidence of strength for many days.

United States Rubber moved erratically, losing 3 points on light liquidation and recovering 2 in the later dealings. Central Leather was strong, closing at 25 1/4. This stock will bear watching and should be among the leaders upon any substantial recovery of prices.

Lehigh Valley, after touching the new low figure of 132 1/4, recovered two points on a report that recent liquidation had been completed. It is understood that a large block of stock exceeding 20,000 shares had been marketed by a corporation and that selling had caused the break of more than ten points during the past week. It is believed by interests associated with the management that no immediate reduction in dividend is anticipated and a further substantial recovery is anticipated.

Southern Pacific convertible 5s were the feature of the bond market. $700,000 changed hands at 100 1/8, an unusual volume for a small market. Subscription rights expired Tuesday, but this made no notable difference as the bonds could be obtained on the floor of the stock exchange close to par.

Railties are characteristic of declining markets. Tuesday's advance merely reflected the temporary suspension of liquidating sales. Should prices hold about this level for a day or two, further advance would be in order.

Two things are to be dreaded under present conditions; a sudden renewal of liquidation or a sharp attack on prices which may result in the encouraging of stop loss orders that might produce fresh liquidation. After a period of declining prices, the first rally is unusually short lived.
